PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.—DISTRIBUTION TO THE VARIOUS LIBRARIES OF THE CONTRY.—Prior to the last Congress (says a Washington letter in the N. Y. Times), the practice existed in the House of Representatives of members voting themselves extensive libraries of valuable works published at the expense of the lievernment. This abuse was corrected at the last Congress, and tha books were or corrected to be deposited in some school association or public library, to be designated in each Congressional district by the member thereof. At the Last session the whole business of "back distribution" was placed under the direction and control of the Secretary of the Interior, who appointed Colonel Wheeler, our late minister of Nicaragua, at the head of the "Document Diffice." THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1858. With Without Should be Preferred to Wood.
We have nothing to say in regard to the electiva praceple as applied to the judiciary by our new constitution except that it renders the judge dependent upon the people. It is impossible to conceive of a perfect independence of the judiciary ander the elective avadem. The most venerable maxim in our science of government is that no man shall be a judge in his own case. The rule also that no man shall appoint a judge who is dependent upon him to estile his controversies is equally renerable and firmly established. The elective principle has become an adjust the section of the judiciary upon the people so direct and pulpable as almost if not quite to tuffinge these cherished maxims. On Saturday Judge Major decided in the case of Whitney, President of Indiana Bank, vs. T. II. Sharpe, that when demand is made of a Bank for the redemption of its bills, the amount presented must be considered a single demand, and the Bank campor redeem in five dellar divisions, without the consent of the holder. This decision will spoil the maneuver of Baoks by which they have gained time in a "run," viz: redeeming five dollars at a time, and in silver, thus making the redemption a long process if the amount is considerable.
